DESCRIPTION:

The project's main objective is to talk and learn about racism, immigration and modern European democracies. Through non-formal education we will indirectly work to build trust between participants of different origins and religions. We will also directly work with games, debates and theater in order to discuss about racism and its origins. We will discuss about its construction from the micro sphere to the macro sphere. We will analyze our cultural identities to end up discussing about the construction of European democracies and the new cross-cultural challenges. Our goal is that preconceptions of other cultures and religions are challenged and that they can better understand the growth of xenophobia and racism in Europe and take sides for a better and fair world. We will work mainly through games and theater and during the whole exchange, participants will have to create an artistic project through mixed groups.

PARTICIPANTS' ROLE (5 Catalans, 5 Italians, 5 Portugueses, 5 Ukrainians + 1 leader for each country)

You are going to participate in all the activities with the rest of the group, follow the leaders' instructions and in case there is any problem or you have some suggestions, talk to your leader or to the coordinator.

LEADERS' ROLE

Leaders are organizing all the activities, running them and are taking care of the participants. There is one in charge of the group for each country.

COORDINATOR'S ROLE

The coordinator is in charge of the good organization of the exchange and making sure that everything works well; that we follow the schedule; that there is enough food and material; that leaders and participants follow the rules and have a good experience.
